Song of The Bandits		* *	+	202	Strongly influenced by 'The Good The Bad The Weird', 'Red Dead Redemption 2' (and possible references to 'Judge Dredd', 'Star Wars' & 'One Piece') this Korean Western is stylish, violent fun. Interestingly sympathetic to the communist rebels who would later become North Korea. It shares some sets with 'Song Of The Bandits' but now they're larger. 'Song of The Bandits' has slightly better hats.	www.youtube.com/ watch?v=Q3YgWMxaq8o	X V W S
Alchemy of Souls		* *	τ ★	202	Assassins! Mages! Biscuits! Monsters! Romance! Excrement!: One of the best k-dramas I've watched - a bit silly and wobbly in places but enormous fun with great characters, effects and huge sets, There's even a second series. It's set in a Joseon-like fantasy kingdom.	https:// www.youtube.com/ watch?v=nlRw1CGbFU0	◎▲ ♣×£©•	The Hong Sisters
/incenzo		* *	τ ★	202	Excellent, reminds me of The Good Manager in that it's about fighting big corporations, only this time with a high body-count, torture, lots of guns, blackmail, and shameless product placement. nspector Koo		* *	τ ★	202	Now firmly in my Top 5 Korean dramas, possibly at number 1. It's very difficult to describe in one tweet: it's a rather unconventional and innovative detective series with a very women-dominated cast that avoids most k-drama stereotypes. Great music that's strangely Madchestery	https:// www.youtube.com/ watch?v=Mhb1pq_v998
Iometown Cha Cha Cha		* *	★	202	A kind but awkward & snobbish dentist ends up in a seaside village, meets casual jack-of-all-trades, and nothing much happens.  Relatively low body-count. It's nice, funny, mostly cheerful and soppy. Ends with impressively forced Domino's Pizza ad. A romance	https:// www.youtube.com/
The Uncanny Counter		* *	*	202	themed romantic comedy.  Originally missed off this list because it's not a romcom, but if Very Serious 'The Tree With Deep Roots' has got on the list I can add a fun Buffy-like superheroes-fight-demons-and-corruption series. Also, like The Tree With Deep Roots, it has Ahn Suk-hwan!	watch?v=z66fazyp3-M  https:// www.youtube.com/	· × 	Yoo Seon Dong

Mr Queen		* *	τ ★	202	A smug promiscuous top chef (male) in 2020 ends up possessing the body of a late-Joseon era Queen. It's funny but there's possibly even more political intrigue than in a serious Joseon drama, & strong themes of how patriarchy turns women against each other. Some excellent acting, especially from Shin Hye-sun as The Queen's two personalities. Lots of cooking! Lots of eunuchs! Rookie Historian Goo Hae-ryung				201	Another Joseon romcom - rather funny at first, then more romantic, and then focuses on a constitutional crisis. 		* *	★		likeable, almost Dickensian characters, and a very-Austen like female protagonist. We started calling the male lead "Sweet Prince Doofus". It often feels more like a Japanese 'Isekai', as the heroine is an educated, smart, very modern woman living in an almost medieval country, and being very smug about it at times. I want my own eunuch now.	watch?v=akqoXm7xu18
Crash Landing On You		* *	₹	201	The Korean Romcom of recent years. Very wealthy woman accidentally ends up in North Korea, meets tall sensitive sad NK captain. The Good Manager		* *	*	201	A gangsters' accountant dreams of moving to Denmark but ends up an accidental hero to workers at a huge company. The entire series is about dramatic inter-departmental accountancy battles and it's really good. Really. Barely any romance. Excellent antagonist.	https:// www.youtube.com/ watch?v=712pgZUFshs	XX S v S z z Z	Park Jae Bum
The Tree With Deep Roots*		* *	★	201	Not a romcom, more a historical romtrag with fighting, betrayal, murders, scheming, linguistics research & Joseon big hats. Absolutely brilliant. 		* *	•	2023	maths instructor falls for a humble side-dish cook and mother. Lots of nice characters and a slow romance between older people, plus, of course, a serial killer.	www.youtube.com/ watch?v=M0roNlisQ5w
The Uncanny Counter 2: Counter Punch		* *	•	202	A direct sequel for 'Uncanny Counter' and more of the same fun. A new team member, new tougher villains (led by a surprisingly muscular Kang Ki-Young, usually a nice nerd) with all the usual silly superhero team drama, this time based in an IKEA. There's a wrestling in cow manure scene. Ahn Suk-hwan with a big machine gun! Strong Girl Nam-Soon		* 4		202	A sequel to 'Strong Girl Bong Soon', focused on another branch of the strong-women family, this time three generations of superpowered women at once - a wealthy family in Gangnam - and the Mongolian-raised hero Nam Soon is even stronger than Bong Soon.	https:// www.youtube.com/	×=====================================
Cafe Minamdang				202	It's daft and fun. The heroine's Batman-like mother is frankly terrifying and I felt sorry for the villain. Unlock My Boss		* *	•	202	with great acting and characters, but somehow too predictable. Phone-in-toilet scene wins a 💩 despite later claim there was a lack of "number two". Sell Your Haunted House		* *	•	202	A warm-hearted fake exorcist.conman with a dark past teams up with a cold, gothy estate agent with a dark past, who is actually a real exorcist haunted by her own mother. Unsurprisingly it's all about death, family, regrets (with occasional humour and SHAMELESS product placement) and is very sympathetic to the ghosts. Secret Royal Inspector & Joy		* *	•	202	smart, nice, naive & smug aristocrat gourmet teams up with a smart, loud, direct, divorced working class woman to solve crimes & corruption. Her Private Life		* *	•	201	Competent, skilled art gallery curator is also an obsessive stalker/fan of a younger k-pop star. Her new boss at the art gallery is a Very Serious Artist. Confusion & romance occur. It all sounds relatively dull but it's done very well: characters are good people, enemies reconcile rather than take revenge, positive portrayal of gay characters, and the underlying theme is shared motherhood, not death. Although it does have a death. Product placement for Canon cameras, the first K-drama product placement to work on me.	https:// www.youtube.com/ watch?v=kw47Jqa6tqw	nên 😂
Flower Crew: Joseon Marriage Agency		* *		201	A male trio of matchmakers/wedding organisers try to turn a poor young woman into a Proper Lady, like 'My Fair Lady/Pygmalion', but it's a Joseon drama so there's also some waterboarding, limb dislocation, murder, suicide, and lots and lots of treacherous scheming	https:// www.youtube.com/	 ×

My Love from the Star		* *	•	201	A conceited actress & unsociable arrogant vulcan-like alien sociology lecturer fall in love, battle murderous CEO, bicker, use superpowers. Not bad, quite daft. Memories of the Alhambra		• •	•	201	It's about Augmented Reality, has an interesting idea, good acting, but both male and female lead characters are just so irritating we spent too much time groaning, facepalming and hoping the bad guys kill them. Drama Series	Status
Strongest Deliveryman	PAUSED	Most dramatic, packed opening episode of any so far but then all characters become unlikeable
The Kings Affection	PAUSED	A lighthearted role-swap Joseon period drama and OH NO. OH.
Under The Queen's Umbrella	PAUSED	Wives and concubines scheme and compete to make one of their sons the next king
Tomorrow	PAUSED	A shabby supernatural team (plus nice guy in coma) try to prevent suicides QUITE GRIM
It's Ok to Not Be Okay	PAUSED	Almost everybody needs to be yelled at IMHO

	Notes
1	Not including the generic depression/anger/guilt/trauma used so often in drama, especially "man seems obnoxious but there is a reason and I can fix him" trope or "PTSD/guilt has made me a violent antihero" cliche
2	Not cliche hacker stuff where a hacker uses magical powers to deus-ex the plot. Absolutely not 'Memories of the Alhambra'
3	Almost every k-drama has some darkness/tragedy in the plot, even in the comedies: suicide, childhood trauma and family tragedy are especially common

Disclaimer: I don't speak Korean, I'm a not an expert in East-Asian media, I'm just someone who enjoys watching k-dramas on Netflix and made this list because I'm a nerd and it saves time when encouraging other people to try some k-dramas.
